Notes

Each element of MADDY consists of a powder-coated steel frame to which an ABS tray is attached, which holds a rigid polystyrene structure with supporting springs. The upholstery covered in quilted fabric, leather or eco-leather increases the comfort of the seat.
The design approach of Maddy allows the product to be completely dismantled when it reaches the end of its life cycle.

MADDY

Patrick Norguet, 2025

With MADDY, Patrick Norguet designs for Alias an upholstered furniture system that expresses comfort in its most essential form. The project transcends trends to evolve into a synthesis of architecture, compositional structure and production principle. The French designer simplifies the archetype of the sofa, often characterised by complex constructions, reducing it to the essential without sacrificing quality and functionality. The MADDY collection includes an armchair, a footstool, end modules with armrests, or central modules, allowing for flexible and elegant configurations that can be adapted to any space
